MISCELLANEOUS.

The European News

Brought by the British mail steamer, which arrived at New-York on the 25th of August, except that portion of it which refers to the state of hostilities in Hungary, seems to be of little importance. In Great Britain, the only subject which engaged public attention was the visit the Queen is now making in Ireland. The papers are filled with descriptions of that unimportant event—The Monarch landed at Cork on the 4th of August, and proceeded to Dublin. On the 7th she held a grand levee at the Castle, at which there were presented to her so many persons that their names fill a whole page of a loyal journal, in very small type.

In France matters were very quiet. The President continued to make journeys from place to place, and at Tours he made a short speech, relative to the designs he has been publicly charged with entertaining, hostile to the constitution, and the forms of government under which he holds his office. The speech is called equivocal. It is not so. Louis Napoleon says, as plainly as one in his position could say, that he means to change the legal tenure by which he now holds the executive power of France, into an absolute hereditary possession, as soon as he shall find the opportunity. This change he refers to under the term of a "heroic remedy." Notwithstanding the virtual denial of freedom of speech, and of the press in France, there remain some bold and eloquent defenders of the constitution and the popular cause in the national assembly.

The 6th, 7th and 8th of August were consumed in the Assembly by a very interesting and important debate upon the conduct of the government in bombarding Rome and suppressing that republic. The champion of the cause of Republicanism on this occasion was Jules Favre, and he appears to have fulfilled the duty, though in very ill health, with courage, eloquence, and ability. The day is, however, accomplished, and has become history. Speeches cannot remedy the wrong, nor punish the crime.—The question whether the "interpellations" which had been moved on this subject, should be submitted to the government, was decided in the negative, by the vote of 176 to 428; majority for Napoleon and his official assistants, 252.

In connexion with this and any other vote that may be taken in the French Assembly upon questions that the executive government thinks of consequence, it may be mentioned that the Paris papers publish the names of thirty-three deputies who are about to be subjected to trial for political offences. With them will be tried eight distinguished journalists, upon like charges.

The finances of France excite great anxiety. It is now officially stated by the minister in charge of that department of the public service, that the deficit of revenue in 1848, was 184,000,000 francs, and that in 1849 it will be 366,000,000. It is proposed to supply this deficiency by borrowing 200,000,000 immediately, and by deferring the payment of 350,000,000 indefinitely, for that is the construction men of business put upon the suggestion of allowing the last named sum to remain for the present unprovided for, in the shape of floating debt.

As to Hungarian affairs, the English and Continental papers are silent upon the reported victory of Dembinski at Ezlau, of which we had a rumor by the last arrival. It would seem to be probable that Raab had been taken about the 2d of August by the Hungarians. It is a very important town and fortress on the Danube, about half way between Buda and Vienna. The latest account from Vienna, says:—

"Telegraphic despatches came one after the other, and a part of the Vienna garrison hastened out on the same night (the 4th and 5th) to proceed by forced marches to the seat of war. All was consternation and alarm at Presburg.

"The manoeuvre is said by some to have been executed by Aulich. The town naturally did not refuse to receive him, and thus the most important position in the rear of the Austrians is now in the hands of the insurgents. Another account says that it was the garrison of Comorn which made a fortunate sally. The Vienna Lithographic Correspondent appears to have spread the latter version of the affair, though in rather ambiguous terms."

The vague and evidently exaggerated reports of Gen. Bem's operations in Transylvania, which we have been receiving for the last six weeks, have misled many sanguine friends of Hungary, as to the measure of success which had attended the arms of the patriots in that province. We fear that the statement of Russian success at Hermanstadt, Cronstadt, and the Rothenthurm pass, is but too well founded. But, as usual, there is a postscript to the more authentic accounts, which represents Gen. Bem to have achieved another great victory. Here is the account of this last success, as published in the London Globe, the evening before the sailing of the steamer. It was furnished by a Constantinople correspondent of that paper. We regret that there is not good reason for believing it to be correct.

"Constantinople, July 25.—A courier from Galatz has brought us the following news, which, however, in the opinion of the politicians here, requires confirmation. The Austrian-Russian army, 60,000 strong, after it had compelled the Hungarian general, Perezel, to retire, and had occupied the cities of Hermanstadt, and Cronstadt, and other small places, advanced as far as Sarcani. The errors and imprudences of Perezel in Transylvania, induced the Hungarian government to send Gen. Bem to retake the command of that most important part of Hungary. He (Bem) collected all the forces under his command, amounting to 40,000 men; marched immediately against the enemy, and on arriving at Sarcani offered battle to the Russian Gen. Luders.

The battle commenced on the morning of the 10th, by a stratagetic movement on the part of Bem, by which he cut off the whole of the left wing of the Austrian army, attacking the right at the same time, and compelling it to fall back upon the centre. Gen. Bem, seeing the disorder of the enemy's lines, ordered the reserve to advance, which, by a determined and gallant charge, decided the day in favor of the Hungarians. The Austrian-Russian army took a precipitate flight, leaving on the field 10,000 dead and wounded, nearly all the artillery, and 8,000 prisoners, among whom is Gen. Aulemberg. After this battle, Gen. Bem again took possession of Cronstadt and Hermanstadt. In Gallcia, Gen. Dembinski is also reported to have gained a victory, and taken Gen. Freytag prisoner.

The State Government.

The approaching session of the State Legislature, which is to commence on the 15th of next month, must be looked to with great interest by our people. The impression appears to prevail in many quarters, though we do not know how it has originated, that this first session is to be a short one, and that its action is to be confined to the work of putting the machinery of the Government in operation, rather than extend to the development of the public policy of the State, by the enactment of general and permanent laws. It seems to be thought that the enactment of such laws, and the shaping of the State policy in general, may properly be delayed until the application of California to be admitted into the Union, shall have been definitively acted upon by Congress.

But even upon this limited view of the appropriate duties of the Legislature, at its first session, that body, as soon as convened, will find a mass of important work on its hands. The Constitution enjoins that, within four days after its organization, the Legislature shall proceed to the election of two Senators to the Congress of the United States. The organization of the Executive Department of the State Government, will also, of course, be completed without delay. The Secretary of State is to be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. But the Comptroller, Treasurer, Attorney General and Surveyor General, are to be chosen by the joint ballot of the two houses of the Legislature. These officers are to be elected by the Legislature only at this its first session. Thereafter, their election is by the Constitution devolved upon the people, and they will be voted for in the gubernatorial elections.

The Constitution also makes it the duty of the Legislature, at its first session, to organize the Judiciary of the State. A Chief Justice and two Associate Judges of the Supreme Court are to be elected by joint ballot. The state is to be divided into a convenient number of Judicial Districts, and a district judge for each, is to be chosen by joint ballot. The term of office of each of these officers is two years, and after their first election by the Legislature, their election biennially devolves upon the people. The Constitution also ordains the establishment of a County Court in each of the organized counties of the state, the Judge of which is to be chosen by the people, and to hold his office for four years. The County Judge, sitting with two Justices of the Peace, may hold Court of Sessions, with criminal jurisdiction. The County Judge is also ex officio Judge of Probate. The Clerks, District Attorneys, Sheriffs, Coroners, and other necessary officers of all the courts of the State, are to be elected by the people; and the Legislature is directed to make provision for such election, and also to fix the number of Justices of the Peace, for each county, city, town and village of the state, ascertain by law their powers and duties, and provide for their election by the people. The Legislature is farther empowered to establish such municipal and other inferior courts as may be necessary. Under this provision, it is not improbable, in view of the pressure of legal business in the courts of San Francisco, that some additional court of special jurisdiction may be established in this city at the first session of the Legislature.

It is also made the duty of the Legislature to provide for the election of a board of Supervisors for each County, and to establish a system of County and town Governments throughout the State.

Besides this organization of the Executive and Judicial Departments of the State Government, the Legislature at its approaching session, will find upon its hands the work of creating a Revenue for the support of the Government. To this end, the Constitution ordains that the restriction contained in its eighth article, upon the power of the Legislature to create a State debt, shall not extend to this first Legislature, which is authorised to negotiate a loan, to such amount as may be needed for the expenses of the Government. In the present circumstances of our community and under the existing provisions of the Constitution, as to the salaries of members of the Legislature and other State officers, this amount will be found, we think, to reach a pretty large figure. It is to be presumed that in addition to the negotiation of such a loan as may be deemed proper, the Legislature will also at its first session, prepare and establish a system of State Taxes for the support of the Government.

It will be observed that here is a great mass of business which from its nature, must press itself upon the immediate attention of the Legislature. Aside from this and independent of it, stand many important topics involving the future public policy of the State. Among these are the questions of adequate provision for Public Education, of the organization and disciplining of the Militia of the State, of Public Improvements within the State limits, and of such Legislation as may be deemed proper on the subject of existing Titles to lands in the State. These questions may not come up in form before the Legislature at this its first session, but some of them are doubtless destined at no distant day to form the main local issues on which parties in the State are to be organized and arranged against each other.

The Election.

We have failed to receive in time for this paper, the returns from the Sacramento District. We give below those from the San Joaquin District, comprising the vote at three polls, Stockton, Liman's Rancho, and Mokelumne Hill.

Merchants Exchange.

Edward E. Dunbar, Esq., has fitted up the Hall over his store on Washington Street, as a Merchant's Exchange, and from an examination of the premises, we observe that he has spared neither pains nor expense to make the establishment in every way worthy the patronage of the mercantile community. Of course the arrangements are not on so extensive a scale as in similar establishments in the large Atlantic cities, but they seem intended to be in all respects as complete as the wants of the merchants of this place at this time require.

Mr. Dunbar has arranged to have the latest papers and periodicals from the States and Europe, regularly filed for the use of subscribers; and in addition a library of useful and valuable Spanish and English books of reference will make another desirable feature, and one too, not often found in similar establishments. A book containing all arrivals and clearances, at this port—Marine disasters and Mercantile memoranda—Imports and Exports, &c.,—together with a general summary of commercial news collected and recorded by a reporter employed for that special purpose, will also be open to the inspection of visitors.

Another book, open also to inspection, will contain all private and auction sales of importance together with a wholesale Price Current.

In addition to other advantages, Mr.

Dunbar has a very extensive commercial correspondence both in Europe and the United States which will enable him to concentrate and impart much valuable and reliable mercantile information.

The value of such an establishment in our city cannot be questioned and its enterprising Proprietor has our best wishes for its complete success.

SALE OF CITY PROPERTY.—The sale of Lots belonging to the city took place yesterday in Portsmouth Square, as previously announced. One hundred and eighty eight Lots were sold, most of them being 50 vara (or 138 feet) lots. Though the lots generally lie a full mile from the business part of the city, the sales amounted, we learn, to the very pretty sum of $98,965. To this must be added about $7000, being the price of surveying, conveyance, &c. of the property sold. Mr. Geo. E. Tyler was the Auctioneer of the day and as the terms of sale were cash, he may regard his day's work as having put our City Fathers in funds for some time to come.

We are requested to state for the information of persons who may wish to send letters to San Diego, that there is a mail made up at the Quarter Master's department for the above place every two weeks.

CITY ITEMS.

REPORTED FOR THE NEWS, BY "BOSTON."

SAD ACCIDENT.—Mr. Wm. S. Waterman, Custom House inspector on board the Chilean ship "Cathalina," fell down the companionway on Saturday morning, and by the breaking of a bottle he held in his hand, received a severe wound in the thigh—severing one artery, and wounding others. Mr. Bartoll, the boarding officer at the Harbor Master's office, promptly despatched a man for Dr. Gerry who dressed the wound, and pronounced the man out of danger for the present.

JUDGE ALMOND'S COURT.—In the case of Leonard vs. Pacific steamship Co., the jury found for the Plaintiff in $1500. The particulars of the case were given in our last Tuesday's paper.

We learn there are several other suits pending against this Company of the same nature, which we shall endeavor to report as they come up.

STABBING.—We were informed that a man was wounded in the neck, in a quarrel at the El Dorado on Saturday night. The wound was not serious.

AN INQUEST was held Sunday forenoon, on the body of a man found dead about two miles from town, back of "Happy Valley." No marks of violence appeared upon the body, which was naked with the exception of a pair of coarse pantaloons. A striped cotton shirt lay near the place, which might have been torn off by some wild animal.

The body having been exposed probably two months, the face was very much disfigured, but the jury were of opinion that it was a Mexican, and returned a verdict in accordance with the above.

ALCALDE'S COURT.—The trial of Jacob Colevin for the murder of B. H. Pollock, terminated Friday evening. The jury after being out a few minutes, returned with a verdict of not guilty.

It will be seen by the official announcement in another column, that Dr. Colton has been appointed Justice of the Peace for San Francisco. In view of Dr. Colton's qualifications and also of the fact that we have at present no regularly appointed coroner, we regard this appointment, conferring as we learn it does under Mexican law a Coroner's authority upon Dr. Colton, as judicious in itself and likely to prove satisfactory to the community.

BILL OF FARE.—Our readers must admit, we think, that the dinner offered them in the advertisement of our friends of the Excelsior Restaurant, is "very well for a new country." We are glad to learn that their excellent establishment is fast gaining the popular favor it deserves.

We notice that the sale of the China Goods per Brig Eveline, by Messrs. Lovering & Gay, commences this day at 11 o'clock and will be continued the following days until the cargo is disposed of. As this cargo embraces an extensive assortment of beautiful goods, it will afford a rare opportunity for selecting some beautiful and intrinsically valuable souvenirs to send those we have left behind us.

The sale will take place at Messrs. Mellus, Howard & Co.'s store.
